To the Students and English Learners

Practice is the way to success. Leonardo da Vinci had practiced drawing eggs thousands of times before he became one of the greatest painters in the world. First few times, curiously; next time, unwillingly; then more times, diligently and delightedly, purposefully and productively. Similarly, one needs to practice basic English skills this way before he/she becomes skillful with the English language as a tool to communicate. Excellence is not a theory, or an act; it is a habit. Here you are on the way to your achievements by developing the good habit.
